

How to measure a Toowoomba Saddlery Saddle

We hope this guide helps you to understand our saddle specifications and determine which Toowoomba Saddlery saddle will best suit you and your horse. It is recommended that where possible, riders consult a professional saddle fitter and sit in a saddle before making their decision.

- A. Pommel
- B. Kneepad
- C. Cantle (The raised curved part at the back-top the seat)
- D. Fender
- E. Seat Jockey
- F. Saddle Size Measure from front-most part of the pommel to the top of the inside cantle.
- G. Seat Size Measure from the back of the pommel to to the top of the inside cantle.
- H. Seat Dip Can be measured by placing a ruler or straight edge on pommel and top of cantle. Take measurement from this ruler to lowest point of seat.
- I. Kneepad Height From the front of the kneepad, measure from the base to the knee pad's highest point.
- J. Chamber Width / Gullet Width. Measurement usually taken from the saddle tree so compression of materials do not affect measurement.

The diagram above indicates how the sizes listed in our saddle specifications are measured. Note: not all riders take their measurements from the same points, please remember this when comparing saddles of different brands.

Most toowoomba Saddlery saddles are made on semi-quarter horse bars, however some saddles are now available on full Quarterhorse bars, if you require quarterhorse sizing please remember to specify this when ordering. Saddles can also be supplied with shortened fenders upon request.

Apart from the above features, our saddles can differ in other ways, such as the way the leather is formed onto the tree, which can affect the 'feel' a saddle gives while riding. For this reason, Toowoomba Saddlery recommends where possible sitting in a saddle before finalising your saddle choice.
